MOVEMENTS OF PRESIDENT GRANT.

Return of the President to His Cottage Home at Long Branch-How He will Spend the Rest of His Summer Vacation-Cabinet Meetings-Mrs. Grant's Reception.

Long Branch, August 17, 1870. President Grant, after an absence of ten days, has sturned again to his cottage by the sea. He ar-ved here to-day in the noon train. Dr. Sharpe arshall, of the District of Columbia, his brother-in-Ulysses S. Grant, Jr., his son, who ac nied him on his western trip, returning with Mr. C. W. Ford, Collector of Internal Revenue St. Louis, also formed one of the party from the ster city, and will remain here two or three days special guest at the Presidential cottage. The valuable services to the country as leader and director of our grand Union armies during the terrible rar of the rebellion, and in their reverential respect or the justice, dignity and wisdom of his administration of public affairs as the Ohisf Magistrate of the nation, gave fin all along the route of his trayel most cordial welcome. In this regard the journey's been to him a most agreeable one, and the recoltions of these popular tributes of unyleiding red and trust will long linger pleasantly in his mory and impart buoyancy to his future labors in the stimulating zest to still higher endeavor to isserve the best interests of the nation and the od will and wishes of the people.

THE PRESIDENT'S WESTERN TRIP, hough, as is well known, made exclusively on pri-ate business, has been quite fully chronicled in the vate business, has been quite fully chronicled in the daily papers, and it is unnecessary to recapitulate the details, replete, as they are, with lively and aburbing interest. Sedulously avoiding, as he did, anying savoring of public demonstration—and, in fact, ublic demonstrations at any time are greatly anta-sonistic to the unostentations simplicity of his quiet nature—the people, in their high estimate of his invaluable services to the country as leader and director of our grand Union armies during the terrible ar of the rebellion, and in their reverential respect.

It could hardly be otherwise than that the Presilent should be somewhat farqued after his late journey and desirous of rest. If he succeeds in carrying out his present programme, and no special exigencies arise in our national affairs to prevent it, and if the politicians wisely continue to let him gione, as they have thus far, there is promise of his getting the rest he needs and which certainly, so far, he has only been able to get by plecemeal. It is his present purpose to remain here till the list of October, at which time, and not before, he will resume his labors at the White House. It is not unlikely there may be in the interval

Dere; but the published statement of a Cabinet meeting to be held here to-morrow has no foundation in truth. There is not a Cabinet Minister here at present. Secretary Belkinap was here, but left ass Saturday, though it is probable he may return in a few days, as his family is still staying at the West End Hotel. As is well known most of the other members of the Cabinet are widely separated, in the enjoyment of their respective summer vacations. A statement that the President was going directly after his return here to Newport to spend a few days is also stroneous. He is with any other watering place. He gets here all the sea air he wants and the best sea bathing. The drives are as good as at any other place of summer resort; the society, if that is what he wants, is made ap of the best and most fashionable people, and chief of all here is his home—home quiet, home sectusion, home companiouship.

MRS. GRANT'S RECEPTION.

Mrs. Grant gave her usual weekly reception this internoon, the hours of receiving being between five and eight P. M. Between these hours the drive eading to the Presidential cottage was unusually hronged with carriages, including nearly all the inc turnouts to be seen here. Many of the ladies insplayed the most elegant toilets. Mrs. Grant was issisted in receiving by Mrs. Casey, her sister, from New Orleans, who is at present visiting her.

Personal Notes. The Boston Journal of the 17th says:-"Mr. S. Frank Crockett, so well known to the patrons of the old Bromfield House, and one of the most capable hotel men in the country, left Boston last night to assume his duties in connection with the Grand Central Hotel in New York, which is to be opened on the 22d inst. This is the largest hotel in the world, and can accommodate 1,500 guests. Henry C. Wright, who died at Woonsocket, of apoplexy, on the 16th inst., was, in former years, one of the little band of anti-slavery speakers to which Garrison, Phillips, Pilisbury and Stephen Foster belonged. The Springfield Republican says he was man of herculean proportions and an orator by nasure. He has also written copiously on many subjects, among others on marriage and divorce. Of late years he has been a Spiritualist. His age must have been sixty-five.

Dr. John H. Gihon, editor of the Topic, Governor Geary's organ, has been appointed Quarantine Master of Philadelphia, in place of Mr. Gartside, who fell a victim to the yellow fever.

CONSUMING THE CITY SMOKE.

Serious complaints have been made at different times during the past four years, to the Board of Health, about the nuisances created by smoke from factories and milis in the built up portion of the city. for many years these establishments have poured out dense volumes of black and stifling smoke, that renders it impossible for persons residing in the neighborhoods to open their windows and secure fresh air. In this city there has never been any attempt made to consume the smoke, but in Loudon, Manchester and other European cities it has proved a success, and great relief has been given the public.

a view of remedying the evil here the With a view of remedying the evil here the sanitary Superintendent got embodied in he new code a clause compeling proprieors of milis, foundries and factories to testroy the smoke, and it is the intention of the Board of Health to enforce the law to the letter. Persons are constantly applying to the Sanitary superintendent, Mr. Morris, for information as to the sets apparatus for accomplishing this purpose; but is not the object of the Board to act as an adversing medium for inventors, and those affected by ection 110 of the code must select their own mode f complying with the law.

POLICE TRIALS

The Grand Roundsmen's Complaints. Commissioners Smith and Bosworth yesterday heard about 100 complaints, principally preferred by the grand roundsmen. In nearly ad the cases tried the grand roundsmen. In nearly all the cases tried by the former the complaints were dismissed as frivolous, and when sustained or there was a doubt in the case reprimands and fines of one and two days were indicted. Officer Curtain, Twenty-ninth precinct, was tried on complaint of Sergeant Hutchinson with being under a stoop, stooping to conquer the copness of a pretty kitchen maid, who Curtain declares came to the window with a pitcher of water to quench his thirst. He defied having any unholy intentions.

Being discovered by the servant girl they left the house by the rear, and in scaling the fences were shot at by a citizen residing in the neighborhood. Howard was subsequently found secreted in a flour barrel near an adjoining house. As Mr. Chittenden and family are in the country the prisoner was temporarily committed to enable the officers to notify him. arraigned before Justice Cox, at Jefferson Market,

THE NATIONAL GAME.

Knickerbocker vs. Star-Victory for the Veterans by a Score of 45 to 25.

There was fun at the Capitoline ground yesterday afternoon; more fun, indeed, than has been seen there for many months, and the occasion of it all was a regular muffin game between the old Knickerbockers and the famous Stars. The former, as is well known, is the oldest base ball organization in the United States, and, although they have now a large number of young players, they yesterday trotted out all of the old criginal members they could get together

CBITUARY. Harry Jordan.

This well known actor died on Tuesday morning in the city of Chicago, after a few weeks' illness. Mr. Jordan was born in the city of Baltimore and served an apprenticeship in the composing room of the Baltimore Sun. He did not long continue at the printing business, but went on the stage. In the early years of his professional career he was quite successful and starred throughout the country in company with his wife, a most estimable lady. His line of business was that of the leading characters in nearly all of the standard plays. During later years he played low comedy parts, but subsequently devoted himself to the specialty of old men. All who were acquainted with deceased will bear testimony to his character as an upright, generous, warm-hearted man, a good father, a kind husband and a true riend. Mr. Jordan was about lifty-two years of age at the time of his death. Jordan was born in the city of Baltimore and served

WEDNESDAY, August 17-6 P. M. DISSOLVING VIEWS. The great question in Wall street to-day is, where is the French army? The contradictory despatches received have checked the speculative feeling, hence the markets have settled down to a state of almost stagnation. If the news of Prussian successes had not been interrupted an active movement in gold on the bear side might have been looked for. United dermany to-day challenges the reliability of de-patches showing a different result, but it won't "put its money on it," Hence an entire absence of interest in the market.

 A WASHINGTON CONUNDRUM

The currency balance in the Treasury, according to Washington despatches, amounts to $25,952,240 42, a decrease of nearly $12,000,000 as compared with the last statement. The coin balance was $101,987,902 39, of which $33,626,500 were in gold

It was stated on the street in explanation of the reduction in the currency balance that $11,000,000 fractional currency had been cancelled. This, however, is an absurd suggestion, inasmuch as the Secretary has not the power of contraction in this way, while the withdrawal of such an amount of "small stamps" is not possible without some reflective disturbance here.

Serious Charge Against a Self-styled Fluar cler-Alleged Attempt to Defraud Suburban Storekeepers-How a Ruralizer Endeavered to Support a Fashionable Family on Worth less Money Checks.

A well dressed, pompous and highly indignant individual named James M. Cromelin, who represented himself as a broker doing business at No. 36 New street, New York, was taken before Justice Shannon at Yonkers, Westchester county, yesterday, to answer a charge of having, as is slieged, obtained divers and sundry goods under false pretences. The complainant, A. S. Ratcliff, outcher in the village named, succeeded in causing the arrest of Cromelin on a warrant, in which the latter is charged with baving obtained meat and vegetables to the value of $100 and giving in part payment of the same a check which subsequently proved to be worthless. As the accused has figured vegetables to the value of $100 and giving in part payment of the same a check which subsequently proved to be worthless. As the accused has figured rather notoriously among the business community of Yonkers recently it may not be out of place to give a resumé of his operations in that village within the past few months.

Early in May Cromelin rented a handsome summer residence on Warburton avenue, where he has since lived with his family, which, from external appearances, would denote that their circumstances were the opposite to anything approaching financial embarrassment. Shortly after his arrival the accused called on some of the grocers, for the purpose of having his household supplied, and stating that he was prepared to settle their accounts weekly. Having obtained a small amount of goods from a grocer haned Edgar, the accused tendered in payment therefor a check for twenty-five dollars, drawin on his office at 33 New street, and signed "S. Heiliman." In the ordinary course of business the check was sent to New York, and shortly afterwards was returned protested by the National Park Bank, the protest senting forth that the office mentioned "had been visited during business hours and the place was found closed, no person being present to respond." A warrant was then obtained by Edgar on July 30 for the arrest of the accused, and he was brought before Justice Baird, but Edgar did not appear to prosecute, as it was understood that a compromise had been effected. Since then Cromelin opened an account with another grocer nained Archibaid, to to whom he gave in payment a check similarly drawn in all respects save the amount. On finding that it was worthless the last named party caused a warrant to be issued for the arrest of his customer, who made it his business to settle matters before the legal document could be served on him.

Next in order is the present compinalment, who alleges that Cromelin net settle for the arrest of his customer, who made it his business to settle matters before the legal document

RAVINGS OF A LUNATIC

A Man Charges His Wife and Two Sons With

Attempting to Poison Him.

Patrick Gannon, residing somewhere in Yorkville, yesterday applied to Justice Coulter for a warrant for the arrest of his wife and his two sons, Patrick and Thomas, whom he charged with conspiring to take his life. He said he had been suffering from delirium tremens, to cure which a physician had prescribed something for him. When the first bottle of the prescription was used up his wife went to the druggist to get another dose and told him to "make it stronger," as the first one did not have the desired effect. From this Gannon thinks his wife wanted to poison him. He also swore that after he had partaken of a portion of this second prescription he spent the night in terrible agony, and he was crtain that a strong mixture of poison was in the dose he had taken and administered to him for the purpose of killing him. The foregoing charges have not in reality any foundation, probably, and are only the crazy fancies of a deranged mind; but in order to be certain about the matter Justice Coulter issued a summons for the wife and sons to appear at court this morning and give an explanation. take his life. He said he had been suffering from
